

FIRST PICKET LINE IN WILMINGTON

WILMINGTON'S FIRST PICKET LINE

Members of the Independent Union of Operating Engineers, on picket duty before the Benevento Gravel Plant, in No. Wilmington, Tuesday morning, became the first picket line ever to appear in Wilmington in a labor dispute.

The Benevento Sand & Gravel Company, in No. Wilmington employed, Tuesday morning, the dubious distinction of being the first Wilmington company ever to have a picket line thrown across the entrance to their property, in a labor dispute.

About eight employees of the Benevento Company, all members of the Independent Union of Operating Engineers, went on strike at 8 am., asking for union recognition. The picket line, formed on Salem Street, has been maintained continuously since then.

No work is going on in the struck plant, nor in the Redi-Mix Cement plant, which is on the same site, and is owned in part by the same interests as the Benevento plant.

Redi-Mix employees, already union members, refused to cross the picket line. Only one office employee is on the Benevento property, to answer the telephone.

Four huge tractor-trailers of bulk cement, shipped from New York State, are parked outside the Benevento property, as the drivers of the tractors refused to cross the picket line. They left the cement, and drove back to New York with the tractors. According to one source of information, the four drivers, under the circumstances, earned about $300 apiece for their days' work, driving from New York to Wilmington and back again.

SEEK MORE LAND FOR SCHOOLS

The Permanent Building Committee has instructed Valtz & Kimberly, architects planning the new Junior High School, to explore the possibility of the town acquiring more land in No. Wilmington for school purposes.

Instructions were given to Valtz & Kimberly, last Thursday, to study the possibility of acquiring additional land northward of the 12.2 acres the town now possesses at the corner of Ballardvale and Salem Streets.

Two Schools is Possibility
Valtz & Kimberly have been discussing plans for the first of three Junior High Schools projected on a long range plan by the committee. The school site decided on is the 12.2 acres bought from Anthony Signore, several years ago, adjacent to the old North School. No costs for the school have yet been determined, but the committee has expressed hopes of keeping the cost down to $900,000.

The instructions to the architects concerning additional land arose from the possibility that another elementary school will have to be built, in this area.

The committee is seeking to explore all possibilities, before finally becoming committed, and although an elementary school may not be built in this particular area, they want to know if it could be done, if needed, before finally deciding on the exact site of the Junior High School.

WORK OF GIRL & BOY SCOUTS & CAMPFIRE GIRLS PRAISED

Town Sanitarian Pat Thibault has praised the work of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls, in passing out 5000 leaflets advertising last Sunday's Polio Clinic.

The clinic was a success in that many adults who had never previously had the vaccine appeared for their first inoculation.

The Board of Health is now discussing the advisability of a third polio clinic, in the first week of September.

WILMINGTON MAN ARRAIGNED IN $150,000 THEFT

John J. Gray, 30 years old, of 116 Eames Street, was arraigned in South Boston Court Tuesday afternoon, charged with participation in a series of thefts from a trucking company, which Boston Police said totaled $150,000 in losses.

Gray, who has been a resident of Wilmington for about 20 years, and is the father of several children, has been described in Boston newspapers as part of a 'slick gang'.

Arrested with Gray were John W. Vernacchio, 28, of Medford and Emmanuel Molinari, 38, of Somerville. All three men are employees of the Yale Transportation Company, of South Boston.

The gang, according to the Boston police, included other unnamed members who served as 'fences'. Boston police said that Gray, Vernacchio and Molinari had all signed confessions.

According to the Boston police the three men and others were stealing radios, clothing cameras, phonographs and TV sets from shipments, and disposing of the articles through fences. The articles had been taken in a period extending back to January 1959.

The looting was said to have been from so-called 'wild freight', freight which had been received by the trucking company in advance of the invoices.

According to the investigators, the cargo stolen from 'wild freight' would be set aside, and later sent out as part of another truckload, to be dropped off at prearranged locations.

The No 2 oil is used in heating many of the smaller buildings in town, such as the Town Hall, Library, Police Station, etc.

Petro of Boston was awarded the contract for No 6 oil for the High School, about 3,166 barrels at a price of $2.72 a barrel, and oil for the Wildwood, Glen Road and Boutwell Schools, No. 5 oil, at $3.29 a barrel, about 125,000 gals.

THOUGHTS ON ZONING

Wilmington has a special town meeting coming up on Sept. 12th. According to some ways of thinking it is supposed to be devoted to Urban Renewal, but undoubtedly other items will creep in for consideration, including, perhaps rezoning. We may not have time later to discuss this - so let's get a few thoughts off our chest.

Wilmington's Zoning By-Law, voted in 1955, is one of the better examples of zoning in the Commonwealth. It was prepared by an Harvard professor, at a cost of $4500.

The Zoning By Law was built around Route 93, and as much as possible pulled us away from the old concept of "strip-zoning" where 300 feet on each side of a railroad or highway was zoned for industry on the theory that some industry, ranging anywhere from a cotton mill to a rag picker might want some land, and have plenty to offer him might be a good idea.

Instead our basic thought today is to have solid blocks of industrial land around the exits of Route 93. We are trying to keep our industry in one part of town, and out of the other parts, to make them better for residential areas.

It must be admitted that immediately after we had established this precept we turned around and violated it, when we voted to make the Barrows farm Industrial, for AVCO. Perhaps we would do this again, if a $20 million plant of a desirable type wanted it, but our thought of the moment is that we would give it a long and hard look, and the further away from 93 the site was, the longer and harder we would look.

Keep our industry on 93. Those industrial areas not on 93 should not be allowed to expand if we can help it, and if possible they should be made smaller or erased. That's how we feel.

Let us examine Route 93 in some detail.

The Northern Zone

In the northern part of Wilmington we have some 600 acres of land, zoned for industry. The idea is good, but we have no real takers as yet.

We think this should be expanded, at this time, and for the last time.

There are two main characteristics of this area. The first of these centers on Ballardvale Street, and the second on Andover Street.

The Ballardvale Street area should become, in time, a network, more or less, of industrial highways, built for trucks, and used by trucks. The present industrial zone should be expanded to about twice its size, with the understanding that this is the final vote. The roads within the industrial area should lead to the intersection of 125 and 93, including one that should be built to give access to the land west of 93, which cannot now be entered by any road in Wilmington.

This area, as we say, should be one huge block. It should not extend any closer than say 500 feet to Andover Street, but should go north wards, eastward, and perhaps southward from its present locale.

The second street in the area - Andover Street - is a horse of a different color.

No industry should be allowed on Andover Street, or eastward of Andover Street, along 125. We are not in favor of industrial zones on 125, because at their very best they would be nothing but strip zoning and in the long run would do more harm than good.

Andover Street has the finest potential of any street in town, for future residential areas. We are not talking about 10,000 foot lots, or perhaps not about 22,500 foot lots. We are talking about larger lots, with fine homes. All the homes on Andover Street today are of this type, and the characteristic should be preserved and encouraged.

To allow strip zoning along Route 125 would be a deterrent to this tendency.

Concord Street

Here we have another interchange, on Route 93, and here we should have an industrial zone. By and large this zone should be East of the new highway, and all the way to the North Reading line. There are some half dozen homes in the area, which can be protected by proper buffer zones, but we are not in favor of expansion

Adjacent, in North Reading, is an area which looks like a Jules Verne description of the moon - thanks to gravel merchants. North Reading hopes to make this industrial. The two industrial areas should meet each other - with no homes to cause interference.

In Wilmington the two areas involved are at present gravel pits which can still be rescued. Making these into industrial areas will give us areas which will not use the town's highways, as in both cases their exits will be very close to the Route 93 exits.

We are not in favor so much of an industrial zone on the west side of Route 93. The highway itself would thus be the barrier, in this area. But, we will admit that there are good and valid reasons why the sandpit known as "Smith's No. 1" should be made industrial.

Only two homes would be involved in such an operation, and it is quite possible that the owners could be persuaded to sell. We could then have a right of way right from the Route 93 exit into this proposed industrial area.

If the entrance is proposed to be any other than the one right beside the Route 93 exit Smith's Sand Pit should not be industrialized. It would not be good policy to turn Woburn St. into a truckway.

No industry should be allowed north of Concord Street, on the west side of 93, now or any time in the future.

Route 129

At the intersection of Route 129 and Route 93 is an area which should have been made industrial 5 years ago, and which should be made industrial today.

We are referring to the land behind the former East Wilmington Improvement Association building - land of about 25 acres in area.

It is a natural industrial zone. People living beyond it have combined, in the past, to block any industrial efforts. Their efforts, zealous as they are, in our opinion are misguided.

A few weeks ago we suggested in this column that a road be built through, from Woburn St. to West Street, in the present industrial zone. We have had some favorable comments, thank you.

We believe this to be a requisite, for the future of the town. When this road is built we should also round off the sharp corner of Eames and Woburn Streets, so that trucks coming from such places as Raffi & Swanson, or National Polychemicals can turn south on Woburn Street, and get to Route 93 without traversing residential areas.

To sum things up:

We want block zoning, not strip zoning, and along Route 93 and no where else. We don't want trucks using our residential highways. We don't want our residential areas threatened by future expansion.

Wilmington has a great industrial potential if we are guided properly -but if we don't vote carefully we can spoil everything. While we have industrial potential, we don't want to be mainly industry. We want a place to live as well, in security.

And that's how we should shape our thinking.

WE SYMPATHIZE WITH REBELS

Down in one of the far corners of our heart is a place labeled "Rebels and Lost Causes". It is in this corner that we keep our innermost thoughts about the Apaches, the Southerners in the Civil War, and the Irish of the Nineteenth Century.

For they were the valient people who fought through on a lost cause to the bitter end. It could be that their cause was not just, but

Brenda left a total of 1.18 inches of rain, on July 29th and 30th., making the total rainfall for July 5.46 inches! During the month of July we had two dry spells, almost approaching drought, and yet we were just about two inches over normal. The norm for July is about 3.46 inches.

Yes! We Have No Pizza!

That was the song in Alma's Donut Shop last Friday, when the Town Crier printed an ad saying that Pizza was to be baked and sold in the premises. The only trouble was that the ad was run one week early, so our face is just as red from the thought of our error as was Alma's from saying 'Yes we have no Pizza'.

The ad is in the paper again this week - and the Pizza is ready this time!

Bees and Honey

Art Allgrove, and ex-employee of the Town Crier is a boy who loves nature, in all its aspects.

We mention this because we saw Art the other day, just after he had finished extracting 140 pounds of honey from some beehives he has. Don't tell us now that bees won't sting - because we could see what happened to Art - not that he was in a bad way or anything.

Art tells us that the pretty purple flowers we have noticed in the Wilmington swamps are a plant that was imported from Europe a few years ago, and which has 'escaped'. He calls the plant a 'weed', and says its name is 'Purple Loose Strife'.

Maybe it is a weed, but it is pretty. Take a look behind the Brown's Crossing Pumping Station, and see the Purple Loose Strife in its beauty, if you want to know what we mean.

The Midnight Express

The Midnight Express, in Wilmington, is not something under the control of the B&M RR but rather a gravel truck, which frequently starts off at about that time, up in North Reading.

It goes down Concord Street, loaded with gravel, and turns south onto Route 93. A couple of hours later it comes back empty, and is left in the No. Reading gravel pit from which it came.

Concord Street residents are mystified about the whole operation.

Rumors and Facts

Stand down in front of Wilmington Post Office and you can hear anything.

We heard, for instance, this week, that the Wilmington Republicans are planning to hire an empty store in Wilmington Square, for campaign headquarters, and that some Democrats are planning the same thing with another empty store in a different part of town.

We heard that Harry Huntley says he has a store for rent, in either case. Of course it wasn't Harry who said this, only that our informant thinks Harry should have.

We heard too that Doc Fagan is thinking of accepting a position in the Tewksbury Hospital.

But these are all rumors.

What isn't a rumor was the lovely card Doc got for his birthday a week ago. It was a monster (somebody showed it off, in the Wilmington Center Pharmacy).

Doc now knows he has a lot of friends, for over 200 people signed that card. One of the signatures reads, we must report 'Dick & Pat Nixon'.

Andover Street?

Andover Street has become a source of puzzlement to the out of town drivers, since the new Route 93 changes have been made.

There just are no signs that point out the direction of Andover Street.

The corner of Salem and Woburn Street is of course the nearest to Andover, but there is no hint there as to where Andover Street really is. Can somebody do something?

they went down fighting, and we admire them for it.

And now, to that list, we have added the name of Mrs. Kathleen Boudreau, of 5 River St. up near Silver Lake.

The lady works in Wakefield, in a place that employs hundreds of other young ladies. As we have read of her adventures in the Wakefield Item we would guess that there has been some parking troubles in the area, and that the cop on the beat was given orders to "Get Those Cars Off the Sidewalks!", just as cops in Wilmington and other towns are given similar orders.

But the car the cop picked on happened to belong to Mrs Boudreau, and although her name is French, her spirit is Irish. She either did not have, or she refused to show her license to the cop.

As he described it in court "a hundred spectators" refused to come to his assistance, and two of the girls advanced in a threatening manner. Their sympathies were with Mrs Boudreau probably because they too have their parking troubles.

Finally a passing Fireman called a Police Cruiser and Mrs Boudreau was forcibly subdued and taken to court, where she was fined.

She appealed the case. The last of it has yet to be heard. She is now free on $400 bail.

As we say, maybe Mrs Boudreau is dead dead wrong, but we admire her spirit. Along with the names of Geronimo, and Robert E. Lee, and William Boyle O'Reilly, we have now added the name of Kathleen Boudreau.

EVEN HIS FRIENDS WON'T SUPPORT HIM

When the Town Crier stated that Jimmy McLaughlin, the self-appointed Chairman of the Wilmington Town Democratic Committee was going to run for Middlesex County Commissioner, Jimmy called the Town Crier a Liar.

Now there are 35 candidates for the Democratic Nomination for County Commissioner, including the name of James L. McLaughlin.

Each of these candidates is counting on heavy support from the Democrats in his home town, plus support from friends in other towns. Even Jimmy is.

But Jimmy isn't going to get the support of Wilmington Democrats. They know him too well.

He had a meeting recently, up on Shawsheen Avenue, where he gave hundreds of cards to his workers, for distribution. The cards of course said that Jimmy was a candidate, etc etc.

Those workers threw away the cards the minute they left the house. Shawsheen Avenue was littered with them, next morning.

CLOSE TO $2,000,000 HOME BUILDING IN FIRST 6 MONTHS

By Robert E. Stewart, Pres. Mechanics Savings Bank

The 3-town Reading area recorded another active 6-month period in home building with a total of $1,780,200 through June this year compared to $1,977,920 for the first six months a year ago. The individual towns had the following records for the period (with 1959 comparisons in parentheses): North Reading $716,200 ($536,000); Reading $669,100 ($797,500) and Wilmington $394,900 ($644,420). Additions alterations and repair totals were greater for the area as a whole with a 3-town figure of $291,605 this year through June (and $185,080 a year ago) as follows: North Reading $141,200 ($59,970); Reading $78,255 ($59,490) and Wilmington $72,350 ($65,620). Total deeds and mortgages recorded very similar totals as follows North Reading 242 (226); Reading 399 (424) and Wilmington 218 (175). 3-town total 859 (825).

Homes Still Lead in Demand

Rising demands for land for shopping centers, manufacturing companies and further industrial expansion compete with residential subdivision and recreational purposes in taking over more and more farm properties in New England. This situation is prevalent throughout the nation according to the Greater Boston Real Estate Board which recently noted that recreational properties have increased in cost over 48 percent of the United States. It is estimated that up to 2 million families have a vacation home in addition to a year 'round residence. Land being used for residential subdivision still represents the most active market. A survey just completed by the Real Estate Boards shows land for home construction sales higher during the past year in 47 percent of the nation while the figures for commercial uses reflected an increase in only 43 percent of the areas.

LETTER

Veranda Ave.
July 31, 1960

Dear Larz:

Your item two weeks ago about the snow plows interested me, as I drove one of them. It was not 40 years ago, it was during the winter of 1933-34, when I was a Senior in High School.

It was a two-horse plow, and was kept in Sam Pike's barn, on Lowell Street. If I remember rightly your cousin, Bob Carter, was Superintendent of Streets that year.

1933-34 was a tough winter. If it snowed, as it did often, I used to go down to Pike's before daylight, hitch up the team, and go up to Burlington Avenue, Boutwell Street, Taft Road, Swain Road West, etc. In those days they were mighty tough roads - all rocks - and if you put the wing of the plow out, you got stopped frequently. It was the only way we could plow wide enough for an automobile though.

I remember one week I put in a total of 83 hours, for which I was paid 25¢ an hour.

Yours truly,
Lloyd Laffin

We went to sea in 1928, and that was the last time we could have seen one of those plows - that's 32 years ago, but our memory is of 'hitching' rides with Charley Perry, over 40 years ago.

Bob Carter, incidentally, was what some people call a Kissing Cousin - i.e. he married a cousin of ours. Wilmington has a lot of relatives, that way.
